Legal Notice for Availability of Westside Fire Recovery Environmental Impact Statement

The final environmental impact statement (EIS) for the Westside Fire Recovery Project is now available for public review. The project is intended to address the need for public and worker safety, safe conditions for firefighters performing fire suppression and community protection, an economically viable project that meets project objectives and benefits local communities, and restored and fire-resilient ecosystems. The final EIS analyzes the environmental consequences of the no action alternative, the proposed action, and five other action alternatives. The final EIS and supporting documents are available on the Klamath National Forest's project webpage at:

http://www.fs.fed.us/nepa/nepa_project_exp.php?project=45579

An Emergency Situation Determination, pursuant to 36 CFR 218.21, was granted for this project on May 13, 2015. Under 36 CFR 218.21(d), a proposed action is not subject to the pre-decisional objection process as the Chief of the Forest Service determined that an emergency situation exists with respect to all or part of the proposed action or activity. With the exception of the pre-decisional objection process noted above, the standard process for timing of Forest Service actions will be followed with respect to signing a Record of Decision (ROD) for the Westside Fire Recovery Project.

Publication of the NOA in the Federal Register is anticipated on August 7, 2015. Publication of the NOA in the Federal Register is the sole means of calculating the minimum 30-calendar day period between publication of the final EIS and my decision. There is no formal comment period on this final EIS prior to decision. However, during the review period, new information received prior to decision will be considered.

Information relevant to the final EIS or the decision to be made may be provided to the Forest Service on the project webpage noted above. To provide information, select the "Comment on Project" link under the "Get Connected" group at the right hand side of the project webpage.
